++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
It will be wet and windy across northern and western areas with some heavy downpours. It will be a drier start in the southeast, with rain arriving in the afternoon. Sunshine and some showers will develop after the rain. It will be a cold and clear night across many areas with a frost, as showers die away.

Outlook for Wednesday and Thursday:

Wednesday will be dry for many with good spells of sunshine. Rain in the southeast will clear, however more rain will arrive in northern and western areas, spreading overnight. Thursday will be bright and sunny after early rain clears away from southeastern areas.
