Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
It will be a wet start to the day for many with some heavy outbreaks of rain across northern counties and towards East Anglia. By the afternoon the rain will become confined to Scotland and northern England, with some brightness across central and southern parts.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:
Further rain will affect Scotland and Northern Ireland through Friday, with bright or sunny spells elsewhere. The rain will move southwards through Friday night but it will ease as it does so and then Saturday will be bright with some light showers. It will start to feel warmer too.
