Further details

Whilst for most overnight rainfall will gradually fade leaving a mostly cloudy picture during Thursday afternoon there is a chance that thunderstorms may develop. This is most likely over parts of East Anglia and southeast England though still only a small chance.

Where these do occur torrential rain, frequent lightning, hail and strong gusty winds are possible. Rainfall totals of 20 to 30 mm could fall in an hour, with a few locations perhaps receiving around 50 mm in two or three hours.

Reason for update

The warning area has been trimmed to where thunderstorms may develop Thursday afternoon. If these do occur they may last into the evening and so the end time has been extended slightly
