++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
It will be a damp start across Scotland, with overnight rain easing. However, showery rain will return to Northern Ireland and western Scotland, turning heavy and thundery later. After a murky start across England and Wales, it will turn brighter, very warm and humid with the odd heavy shower.

Outlook for Wednesday and Thursday:
Heavy rain will become confined to northeast Scotland on Wednesday, with only patchy rain extending further south. It will be very warm and humid in the far southeast, otherwise turning fresher from the west through the day. Sunshine and showers then following on for Thursday, these heaviest in the northwest.
