

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Wednesday 07 Apr 2010

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Some mist or fog patches to start the day in England and Wales, mostly in the west. Once these clear, however, it will be a fine, dry day with plenty of sunshine for many areas. Scotland and Northern Ireland will keep rather more cloud throughout the day with occasional light rain, this weakening through the afternoon.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:

Staying dry for most places with variable cloud but some sunshine too. Cloud is likely to be most prevalent in eastern England, particularly around North Sea coasts, and also in northwestern parts on Friday, these areas perhaps also seeing some occasional drizzle.

(C) Crown Copyright 2010. Published by the Met Office.