

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0700 on Monday 04 Mar 2013

++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Mostly dry and rather cloudy for many during the morning. Cloud should break quite readily across much of England and Wales later, with more in the way of sunshine, and feeling warmer than of late in the south. These clear skies will lead to a widespread frost with fog developing in many areas overnight.

Outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday:
Staying dry for many on Tuesday with fog lifting through the morning leaving a mixture of sunshine and broken cloud across the UK, and feeling warmer again in the south. Then, outbreaks of rain will eventually spread across most parts during Wednesday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2013. Published by the Met Office.