

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Saturday 08 Dec 2007

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Severe gales are expected in the southwest on Sunday, with gales more generally in the south. Plenty of cloud will bring showery outbreaks of rain to most parts with locally heavier falls, but with some drier conditions at times too, especially to the north.

Outlook for Monday and Tuesday:
Rain will clear southeastward on Monday, with some snow likely on northern hills. Sunny breaks will follow with scattered showers, again falling as snow over northern highland areas. Mostly fine on Tuesday, with sunny breaks in the south and east but rain in western and northern locations, persistent in the northwest.

(C) Crown Copyright 2007. Published by the Met Office.