Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow :
It will be a chilly start in places, but with plenty of sunshine.
However, patchy cloud will develop and bring a scattering of showers, and some of these will become rather sharp for a time, especially in the west, before turning lighter towards evening. It should feel pleasant in any sunshine and just gentle breezes.

Tonight, Showers will die out away from the northwest, but increasing cloud and wind will bring rain into many western areas later. It will again be a chilly night in the east.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday: Thursday will become cloudy and wet after a chilly but sunny start in the east. Rain will clear Thursday night to leave Friday a very blustery day with sunny intervals and squally showers.
