Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Today will be another cold and rather cloudy day for most with sleet and snow showers in the east, which could settle in a few spots. Overnight will be cold with a widespread frost, and the wintry showers could push into some central and western areas. There's a risk of ice, with a dusting of snow for some.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:

Saturday will be cold and cloudy again but it'll be windier than Friday. Showers will be more frequent and will fall as a mixture of rain, sleet or snow. Sunday will stay cloudy for most with the odd spot of rain.
