Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Saturday will be cloudy for many with patchy rain affecting Wales, Scotland and much of England, with the rain turning to snow on northern hills. The far east of England will see some brighter conditions, but some rain is expected even here late in the day. Blustery showers are expected in Northern Ireland.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
Sunday will be cold, dry and bright, apart from a few wintry showers in southeastern England. A brisk wind across southern parts will make it feel especially cold here. Monday will be another cold day with isolated wintry showers, these most likely in the east and southeast.
