Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
A band of rain will sweep across many western areas through the day. This will bring very strong winds, with the risk of severe gales around the far west. It should be drier further east with the rain not arriving here until late on.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:

Another swathe of wet and windy weather will push northeastwards early on Friday becoming confined to the northeast by the afternoon. Brighter but more showery conditions will follow and it will remain windy. On Saturday rain will push from east to west across northern areas. It will be brighter elsewhere but still some showers around.
