

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Monday 31 Mar 2008

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Brightening up in most places on Tuesday. Quite windy generally with gales in the north, and here there will be some showers too, which could be heavy and prolonged at times. The southern half of Britain will be drier and it could become reasonably mild too in the south.

Outlook for Wednesday and Thursday:
Mostly cloudy across the country. Northern areas will also be damp with some rain at times particularly for northwest Scotland and parts of Cumbria, but the further south and east one goes, the drier and warmer it will be with a better chance of some sunshine.

(C) Crown Copyright 2008. Published by the Met Office.