Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
A cooler and rather unsettled day for many parts, with a mixture of heavy rain or showers, especially over England and Wales during the afternoon where some of the showers may turn thundery. Northern Ireland and parts of eastern Scotland will perhaps see less in the way of showers, and conditions will become drier later in the southwest.

Outlook for Monday and Tuesday:

It should start drier, but fairly cloudy with just a few showers at first on Monday, but more cloud and rain will spread in from the southwest later. A rather wet day for most on Tuesday, but drier and brighter in Scotland.
