

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Wednesday 24 Jul 2013

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Many places should start rather cloudy with some rain, especially in northeastern Britain. While parts of the northeast should stay rather cloudy, most other areas will gradually brighten up, with scattered showers also developing widely. These showers are likely to be heaviest in northern UK, perhaps turning thundery here for a time.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:

Remaining unsettled with a chance of showers on both days, although still feeling warm in intervening sunny spells. The shower risk will generally be highest in the cooler north and west, although thundery downpours may affect the increasingly warm southeast on Saturday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2013. Published by the Met Office.