++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Rain will clear to the north during the morning leaving most places mild and rather cloudy, although a few bright or sunny spells should develop across eastern areas. Patchy rain will soon spread in from the Atlantic however, affecting western parts of the UK. Some heavy bursts are possible in places across northwest Scotland.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:
Heavy rain and brisk winds will continue across northwestern parts of Britain on Friday but it will be dry further south and east with some sunshine, and feel rather warm in places. Rain will fragment and spread southeastwards on Saturday, with some sunny spells following.
