Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
After a chilly start most places will be dry, with variable amounts of cloud and bright or sunny spells. However, it will be cloudier across parts of Scotland and Northern Ireland, with some outbreaks of patchy light rain. It should feel quite pleasant in the sunshine, with temperatures highs of 20C in the south.

Outlook for Monday and Tuesday:
High pressure will begin to dominate the weather across the UK over the next few days. This will bring plenty of fine and dry weather, with sunny spells. Feeling quite warm in any sunshine but some chilly nights likely with the risk of patchy fog.
