

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Friday 07 Nov 2008

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
One band of rain will move eastwards early on Saturday, followed by some sunny intervals. Another band of heavy rain will follow during Saturday evening and night, It will be a very windy day everywhere, gales around many western coasts and hills.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
The weather will remain unsettled with bands of rain, often heavy, sweeping eastwards across most parts of Britain during Sunday and Monday, the showers tending to become wintry on some of the more northern hills and mountains. In-between there will be spells of sunshine or clearer intervals. Feeling rather cold, especially in the north.

(C) Crown Copyright 2008. Published by the Met Office.