Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
It will be a drier and brighter day across much of the north, with the risk of some showers, perhaps heavy at times. Showers or longer spells of rain will continue in the south through much of the day, again some heavy and thundery. Staying breezy in the west.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:
Staying changeable, but generally much quieter than previous days. Showers across the southeast on Thursday will slowly ease by Friday. Elsewhere, it will generally be dry and bright with some sunny spells developing, especially across the northwest. Further rain will then return to the north and west later on Friday.
