Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:

It will be a wet and unseasonably windy day across southwestern England and southern Wales with heavy rain or showers at times, along with gales near some southern coasts. Northern Scotland and later also eastern England will be mostly dry and bright, but otherwise there will be either scattered showers or longer spells of rain.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:

Sunday and Monday will be unsettled with either showers or more persistent rain at times, some of which will be very heavy with a risk of thunder. There will be some sunshine in places too, especially in northwestern Scotland where it will be mainly dry.
