

National Severe Weather Warning Service

Chief Forecasters Assessment

Showers are likely to merge into a 2-3 hour spell of heavy rain as an active trough moves eastwards during Saturday, with parts of southeast England at risk of 15-25 mm of rain falling within that time.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 09:00 on Sat, 09th Nov 2013 until 16:00 on Sat, 09th Nov 2013

Another area of heavy rain is likely to move east across southern parts of England during Saturday.

The public should be aware of the risk of localised disruption due to surface water flooding.
