Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Some localised mist and fog patches at first, but most places will have a dry and bright start. Cloud will bubble up through the day with a few showers developing, especially across eastern areas. It will also become cloudier across western parts with some rain arriving later in the day.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:
Showery rain at first on Friday will give way to a mixture of sunshine and a few showers. These showers should be mostly light and will soon die away through the evening period. Saturday will be a mixture of sunshine and a few showers and winds will generally be light.
