++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
It will be warm across most of England and Wales with sunshine and thundery downpours. However, low cloud will give cooler weather across northeast England and eastern Scotland. More persistent rain will affect parts of Scotland and Northern Ireland. Further thunderstorms are expected in the west overnight. Clear spells will develop elsewhere with coastal fog in the northeast.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
There will be very warm sunshine on Sunday, although scattered thunderstorms are likely over England and Wales, with early rain in the far northwest. The north will be warm and sunny on Monday, but further rain will affect southern England and Wales.
