

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Tuesday 03 May 2011

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Chilly first thing in the morning with frost in some parts of the countryside.
Then most of the country will have a day of hazy sunshine with lighter winds than today, allowing temperatures to rise a degree or two. However thicker cloud will move into western areas during the day, with perhaps some rain for Northern Ireland late the evening.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:

Thursday will see the rain moving through northern and western areas, although the south and east may have a few showery outbreaks too. On Friday there will be more rain at times in the west, but drier and brighter elsewhere.
