

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0700 on Thursday 07 May 2015

++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Cool and windy in the far north with showers at times, wintry over hills this morning. Mostly dry, bright, and feeling warmer elsewhere with light winds and only a few showers possible across the south. Showers continuing in the far northwest tonight, dry and chilly elsewhere with a patchy frost in rural areas, before rain arrives in the Southwest later.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:

Wet and windy weather will move northwards through the day on Friday. However the far north will see a drier and brighter day with isolated showers. Dry and bright after a damp start on Saturday with showers in the east.

(C) Crown Copyright 2015. Published by the Met Office.