Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
For much of England and Wales, the day will be dull, wet and windy. The rain persistent and often heavy, especially across upland parts of Wales and northern England. However, London and southeast England should remain dry and brighter until late evening. Heading north across Scotland and Northern Ireland, the weather will be brighter and less breezy, though still showery.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:
Thursday and Friday will see a return of a cool and brisk west to northwesterly breeze across all parts. This will bring a mix of sunshine and scattered showers. The showers most prevalent and heaviest across central and northern areas.
