Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
It will be another rather changeable day across the UK, with a mix of sunshine and showers predominating across the bulk of the country. Some of these showers may be rather sharp, particularly across central and southern parts, but on the whole they should be lighter than recently.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:
Over the weekend most places will see a good deal of fine and dry weather with good spells of sunshine and just the low risk of a shower. However, during Saturday it is likely to become rather cloudy and windy across the far-east, with outbreaks of light rain possible.
