Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
A bright and breezy day for most, with plenty of sunny spells and scattered showers, these are likely to be most frequent in north and west. Many southern and eastern areas will remain dry. Further outbreaks of rain will move into the northwest later.

Outlook for Wednesday and Thursday:
Dry and fine in the south on Wednesday. Outbreaks of rain and drizzle, heavy at times, will affect Scotland and Northern Ireland, and will slowly spread southwards and progressively weaken through Wednesday and Thursday. This rain probably not reaching the southeast until Thursday evening, and sunshine and showers will follow the rain in the north.
