Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
There will be some sunny intervals, but also showers. Some of these will be heavy with a risk of thunder, and will merge into longer spells of rain for some central areas. It will be a chilly day, and in central and southern areas, windy. Showers continuing this evening, but mostly dying out away from the south.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:

Thursday will be another day of sunshine and showers, with most of the showers in the south where some will be heavy and prolonged. Friday will see prolonged and heavy rain spread northwards, accompanied by strong winds. It will remain chilly.
