Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Patchy fog, mist and low cloud, will clear quickly during morning. Monday will be a generally dry day with warm sunshine. Isolated showers are possible in central southern and southwestern areas of England during the afternoon. However rain will reach the far northwest of Scotland by the evening.

Outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday:

A band of rain will fragment as it spreads southeastwards during the day Tuesday, with the south and east remaining mainly dry with sunny spells. Wednesday will see the best of the dry and bright weather again in the south and east with more cloud and some light rain towards the northwest.
