Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
It'll be cloudy in the east with fog on the hills, and the odd spot of rain possible through the day. In western parts of the UK there'll be bright spells at times, but also a few showers which are likely to be heavy or thundery in parts of Wales and the south-west.

Outlook for Wednesday and Thursday:
It will start to turn colder through the rest of the week, with temperatures in low single figures by day and below zero for many at night. It'll be rather cloudy with a few light showers feeding in from the east, and these could perhaps turn wintry.
