

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Thursday 01 Jan 2009

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Many places will start grey and misty with patchy fog, and a widespread frost. However, sunnier skies will edge westwards during the day, bringing a more cheerful feel as it should also become a little less cold. A few light showers are possible near northeastern coasts.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:
It will remain mostly dry and cold with some decent spells of sunshine during the day. However, nights are likely to become very cold with widespread hard frosts along with a few freezing fog patches. Later Sunday, some rain may edge into some northern and western areas bringing the risk of icy surfaces.

(C) Crown Copyright 2009. Published by the Met Office.