Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Mostly cloudy this morning, with some patchy mist and fog, mainly in the northwest. The cloud will break up in the afternoon, giving some warm sunny spells. Isolated showers in the south. Rather breezy along the south coast. Cloud will thicken overnight from the east, giving patchy light rain, mist and hill fog to many areas by tomorrow morning.

Outlook for Monday and Tuesday:

Cloudy with patchy rain across central and eastern parts at first on Monday, but this will push northwards into Scotland, as drier and brighter conditions develop elsewhere. Still scattered showers over eastern Scotland on Tuesday, but dry with sunny spells elsewhere.
