Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
A band of rain will ease as it continues to push southeastwards across central parts. To the north of this there will heavy, blustery and occasionally thundery showers with very strong winds. Meanwhile it'll be mostly fine and very warm in the south.

Outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday:

Again there will be some blustery showers across Scotland and Northern Ireland on Tuesday, though these should be less intense and less frequent than Monday. Elsewhere it'll be another fine day, but not as warm as of late. Wednesday's looking similar, though the showers across Scotland should be mostly light and fairly scattered.
