Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Early mist and fog patches in the north of the UK will soon disperse and most places will have a dry day with sunny spells and light winds. It will be rather cloudy in central and southern parts of Britain though, and feel cool, but some sunshine should break through during the afternoon.

Outlook for Wednesday and Thursday:
It will stay largely dry and settled with plenty of sunny spells although a few spots of rain are possible in the far northwest of the UK on Thursday. It should be mild by day but cold nights are likely, with patchy fog and frost.
