Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Heavy rain and thunderstorms will continue to move north over parts of eastern England and eastern Scotland. Southwestern parts of the UK should start dry and bright and this drier weather will spread to all but the far northeast of England and eastern Scotland by the end of the afternoon.

Outlook for Wednesday and Thursday:
Further rain will arrive in the far west on Wednesday, though it will be a fine day for most. This rain will slowly spread to central areas on Thursday though it should ease later in the day. Temperatures will be generally around normal.
