++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
It will be fine and warm with plenty of sunshine for much of the country. Whilst some cloud will build during the day it should stay dry. However across the far north, it will be cloudier with one or two outbreaks of rain. These conditions then persist overnight.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
It will be another fine, warm and sunny couple of days for most. However the patchy cloud across the far north will gradually spread southeastwards, bringing further sporadic outbreaks of rain across parts of Scotland. One or two heavy showers are also possible in the east on Monday.
