Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
It will be a rather cloudy start for many of us, especially in the east. The cloud will then break to give many parts a fine day with some sunshine. However, across Scotland and northeast England, scattered heavy and potentially thundery showers can be expected at times, although even here there will be some sunny interludes.

Outlook for Wednesday and Thursday:

It will be generally fine and warm on Wednesday, but it will turn wet in the northwest later. There will be rain in places on Thursday with some brighter interludes for most. The best of the fine, dry weather will be in the southeast.
