Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
After a frosty start and a few lingering fog patches in the east, most of the UK will stay dry all day with plenty of sunshine, although it will feel rather cold. Wet and windy weather will arrive in Northern Ireland and the far west of Scotland later in the afternoon.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:
Heavy rain and strong winds will spread across the whole country from west to east during Saturday. Wales, Northern Ireland, Scotland and the west of England will improve during the afternoon. Sunday will be dry and settled for everyone and milder than recently.
