

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0700 on Sunday 08 May 2016

++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
It'll be a very warm day for many today with plenty of sunshine, and temperatures in the north much improved on previous days. It will be generally dry, although there is the chance of an isolated heavy and possibly thundery shower in the north and west. Overnight will be mild with clear skies for most.

Outlook for Monday and Tuesday:
Southern Britain will see increasing cloud and showery, perhaps thundery rain on Monday, although Northern England, Scotland and Northern Ireland will stay dry and sunny. This set up is likely to persist into Tuesday, with Scotland holding on to the best of the sunshine.

(C) Crown Copyright 2016. Published by the Met Office.