++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
It should be a mainly dry, but rather cloudy start in the east. Breezy with thicker cloud and spells of rain in the west to begin, this moving eastwards during the course of the day, perhaps not reaching the southeast until late afternoon or early evening. Low cloud and hill fog will eventually affect the western parts.

Outlook for Wednesday and Thursday:

A rather cloudy morning on Wednesday with some spells of rain here and there, but becoming increasingly drier and brighter during the course of the day. Another brief band of rain will move eastwards during Thursday, followed by brighter conditions and scattered showers.
