Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
It'll be a wet start for western England and Wales and southeastern Scotland, as occasional, heavy rain moves northwards. Otherwise, it'll be cloudy with some brighter spells later. In the south and east of England scattered showers, which may be heavy, will move northwards through the day.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:
Staying unsettled into Thursday as further rain, with some heavier bursts, moves eastwards. After the rain, it'll stay cloudy and feel mild. Starting off dry and bright on Friday but it'll turn wet and windy as more rain moves eastwards and winds strengthen, possibly gusting to gale force in the north and northwest.
