Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Showery rain across Northern Ireland at first will spread eastwards through the day. Ahead of this it will be largely dry, sunny and very warm. Feeling hot in the southeast. By evening, the showery rain, turning locally heavy at times, will have reached many northern and western parts.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:

Rather cloudy Saturday with spells rain or showers, locally heavy and perhaps thundery at times. There may be a gradual improvement across western parts later, but temperatures less warm than Friday. Further showers are likely on Sunday, but perhaps less widespread and heavy. Some drier and brighter periods are equally likely.
