++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Sunday will start frosty for many. It will be a fine and dry day though, with plenty of long sunny spells, but it will be windy in the southwest, where it will feel rather cold. With clear skies overnight there will be a widespread frost for many, away from the southwest.

Outlook for Monday and Tuesday:
It'll turn cloudy and damp from the west on Monday. Largely dry on Tuesday but rain in the northwest will spread further southeast on Wednesday. It will be turning much milder across the UK by Wednesday, with temperatures rising into double figures.
