++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Rather cloudy and dry with the best of the sunshine across Wales and southern England, where some fog and low cloud may persist through the day. Northern parts will be breezy, with some light rain in the north-west. Rather cloudy overnight with some clear spells, where a patchy frost and fog is likely.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:
Generally dry but rather cloudy with some bright or sunny spells at times. A band of patchy rain edges westwards from the east coast on Friday and dissipates, with drier, clearer conditions following. Rather cold with frosty nights and fog patches, and becoming windy in the south-west.
