

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Thursday 24 Feb 2011

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
A fairly cloudy but mild start across England and Wales, with extensive hill-fog in the west, and some brightness expected during the day further east. Wind and rain across Scotland and Northern Ireland will move southeastwards, arriving across the Midlands and southwest England by the afternoon. Brighter conditions with heavy showers follow into the northwest.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:
Turning cooler into the weekend with a mixture of sunshine and heavy, possibly thundery showers. Most of these will be across England, Wales and western Scotland during Saturday, then pretty much anywhere during Sunday. Clear spells overnight will lead to a risk of overnight frost.

(C) Crown Copyright 2011. Published by the Met Office.