++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Most parts will have another day of sunny spells and scattered showers. Showers will be heaviest and most frequent across the west with drier weather further east. Despite this, heavy rain looks likely to push across southeastern England through the afternoon, clearing by evening. It will be a rather cold day despite winds easing.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:

Heavy rain will push east across much of England and Wales on Saturday morning. Elsewhere, it will be another day of sunshine and scattered showers. After a sunny morning on Sunday, strong winds and rain will push east across most parts through the afternoon.
