

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0700 on Monday 01 Oct 2012

++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Rain in the southeast, heavy at times, slowly clearing. Breezy in the north.
Showers in the west, sometimes heavy with the risk of thunder in the northwest.
Drier and brighter in some central and eastern areas. Increasingly breezy across the UK tonight, with heavy showers in the north and west. Largely dry with clear spells in the south and east.

Outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday:

Breezy with heavy showers, or longer spells of rain in the west on Tuesday.
Drier and a little brighter further east, but always the risk of a few showers here as well. Rain or showers for all parts on Wednesday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2012. Published by the Met Office.