++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
It will be an unsettled day with a mixture of sunshine and showers, these blustery in the west and south with brisk winds, but slower moving in the east. The showers may merge at times with the risk of hail and thunder, although these will tend to fade into the evening, allowing it to turn chilly overnight.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
After a bright start in the east, cloud and rain will spread into the west, turning heavy in the northwest. As this clears eastwards, heavy blustery showers will follow on with hail and thunder. Winds will strengthen further with gales in the west.
