Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Occasionally heavy rain will develop across southern Scotland and Northern Ireland, later spreading south, reaching northern England by evening. As this clears it will allow cooler, showery conditions into northwestern parts. To the southeast of the rain it will be largely fine and pleasantly warm, although a few showers are possible. It will, however, be breezy across the UK.

Outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday:

Any early rain in southeast England will clear quickly on Tuesday. It will then be a cool day with a mixture of sunshine and occasionally heavy showers.

Wednesday will be a windy day for most, with spells of rain spreading west.
