

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Thursday 30 Apr 2009

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Rain, some heavy, especially across the north and west will spread eastwards but taking all of Friday to reach the southeast. This followed by some squally showers. Southeastern areas, apart from the odd shower will remain fine and dry. Temperatures near average in the north to rather warm in the south.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:

A generally fine and mostly dry weekend across the southern part of the UK. Unsettled with some wet weather and a strong wind at times further north. Temperatures near normal in the north, to a little on the warm side in the south.

(C) Crown Copyright 2009. Published by the Met Office.